A month-long celebration of craft and craft makers

Delivered by Farnham craft makers and institutions led by Farnham Maltings and Farnham Town Council

Welcome to October Craft Month 2022

I look forward to celebrating the opening of this splendid project with the Farnham creative community.

In these times of huge world challenges – presenting to us one after the other – it is easy to feel powerless. However, we can make a difference from within our own communities, with those we encounter physically, digitally, emotionally, spiritually. Being creative, kind and sensitive to our individual circles of contact – be they communities of family, friends, of chance, of neighbours, work, play or academic practice.... – this is where we can make a difference by openly contributing in a positive way.

Sharing the fruits of a genuine creative focus can bring physical and mental positivity, productivity, meditative balance and empowerment. To 'Make' is life affirming and to share this is joyous. Art and Craft add reason to living. The buzz has long been that Farnham is bursting with creativity, both the past and the present are confirmation of this. Farnham Craft Month will doubtless make a creative contribution to the several communities who will enjoy this project. I am honoured to have been invited to mark the opening of this event and look forward to celebrating creativity with your wonderful communities who have been working together to make this happen.

"Hooray for Clay. Kate Malone".

We would like to thank all our partners, supporters and advertisers, but most importantly our craft makers and creators for participating in Craft Month and providing over 100 opportunities (of which more than 50 are free!) to inspire you to join in, learn a new skill or to have a go at making something yourself. Keep creating!

Brochure designed by James Smith Design www.jamesmithdesign.com

“A world of craft on our doorstep”

Farnham is a designated World Craft Town, by the World Craft Council (WCC), and October Craft Month is our opportunity to celebrate craft and crafts people together.

Our theme for October Craft Month 2022 was chosen to highlight the vast array of crafts taking place in and around Farnham behind the doors we pass every day. We have so many amazing crafts people creating from behind these doors, some of which you might not know are there!

The doors on the cover of this brochure are all from this area and have or have had craft taking place behind them. They have been illustrated by local artists and the original artworks are available to see (and purchase) in our exhibition at The Bush Hotel throughout Craft Month.

Did you identify all the artists and the doors?

- Helen Locke - Echo Barn Lane
- Susie Lidstone - Artist's house
- Bernice Grundy - Watts Gallery
- David Wright - UCA
- Pete Gillespie - Farnham Maltings
- Shirley Ann Stephens - The Farnham Pottery
- Gillian Carter - West Street
- Doris Buma, Adernach - Artist's house on Stephendale Road

Raise your glass! - It's International Year of Glass #IYOG2022

Stone Age, Bronze Age and Iron Age. Has there ever been a time when glass was dominant? Could it be now? 2015 was the UN International Year of Light and as glass and light are intertwined, The United Nations agreed to endorse 2022 as the International Year of Glass.

Celebrating all things glass, the Surrey Artist of the year 2021 was Jessica Stroud, a stained glass artist. "It's an honour to have my work recognised in this way by the public and it means so much to me that the work I'm so passionate about, resonates with others".

The term "stained glass" encompasses three different processes: colouring, staining and painting, each one complex and requiring the application of many skills.

To see Jessica's work, which celebrates her love of nature and the skill of traditional Arts and Crafts stained glass and to find out more about The International Year of Glass, visit The New Ashgate Gallery in central Farnham. Voting for Surrey Artist of the Year 2022 will be open too until 14th October when the work by 20 new shortlisted artists and makers will be on display. See event listings for details.

Keep connected and keep creating

Farnham Creatives Network is a friendly group which has an informal monthly meeting at The Riverside Cafe, Farnham Maltings. Everyone is welcome to go along and connect with fellow makers, artists, designers, educators, gallery owners and other like-minded creatives in a casual setting. There are also invited guests who attend to chat and answer your questions about the focus topic; be it Etsy, social media, markets, holding an open studio, selling online and everything in between! 7pm - 9pm on 6th Sept, 4th Oct, 15th Nov, 12th Jan.

Our World Craft City Neighbours

Farnham is delighted to have been granted World Craft Town status which also gives the town access to an international network of Craft Cities. This award acknowledges that the roots of craft run deep in Farnham – from the clay beneath our feet to our centuries’ old tradition of passing on craft skills – but also recognises that craft remains relevant to contemporary life in Farnham and has the potential to shape the future life of the town. Craft is embedded into the fabric, the homes as well as the cultural life of Farnham.

Why not visit one of our wonderful World Craft City neighbours?

Visit www.wccinternational.org to find out more about how and why these cities have been awarded World Craft City status.

Farnham opens its doors to the Ukrainian community

Farnham has opened its doors, not just to the world of craft behind them, but also to welcome the Ukrainian community. Residents have offered accommodation and support with various groups providing opportunities for Ukrainians to learn a new skill or to revisit one they practised in Ukraine.

Children’s art classes and adults’ sewing groups are on Thursdays at The Farnham Maltings (4-6pm); English lessons for Ukrainian adults are at several venues during the week. (Call 01252 712667).

Many activities are also happening throughout October craft month, to celebrate the talented Ukrainian artists and craftspeople in our community. Please support these events and invite any Ukrainians living locally, to come along and participate.

Meet the Maker – Susie Lidstone

Artist

What are you working on at the moment and where do you find ideas for your work?
I am working on a private house commission and a commission for the Mayor’s Christmas card image for this year. For the Mayor it was walking round Farnham and tapping into my love of the place taking time to notice every tiny detail and an idea sparked that he liked.

What medium do you use in your practice and why?
I paint in Watercolour but I use the medium in quite a different way using the pigment in very small areas to bring the vibrant colours shining through.

What motivates you to make work, who do you believe has influenced your career and inspired you to start?
My motivation comes from my childhood for as long as I can remember I have wanted to create. My mother was an artist so it was a creative background. My father was an author as well as owning his own business. I’m influenced by Charles Rennie Mackintosh because he combined beautiful lyrical watercolours with his architecture. This sums up my work.

What is your favourite piece of work you have created, and why? An interesting question. Every piece of work that I create takes so much time it becomes part of who I am. That has changed over the years because so much of my work is commission based. But I would say that a painting that I did of Lowndes Buildings in a way formed part of my childhood with my parents to fast forward to meeting the people who lived and owned one of the houses.

What is your proudest achievement or award you have received?
I am quite a modest person, every time somebody asks me to produce something for them I feel proud. Maybe being featured in The Times for my Architectural work.

What is the most indispensable item or tool in your studio?
My stable brushes are very fine and they feel like an extension of my fingers.

Where is your favourite place to see art/craft?
Locally The New Ashgate Gallery. The Royal Academy

London. Artist Open Studios which is close to my heart.

Why is Farnham the place to practise your art/craft?
Farnham is my home and my love of it is part of who I am. I studied at WSCAD, now known as UCA, and worked there for 11 years after graduating. So much of what I produce is due to my love of all of the architecture and hidden alleyways that show you a part of Farnham that hasn’t changed.

Being part of a community of makers is... Something very special because it brings so many different creatives together with very eclectic ideas and you can spark off each other. Also being an artist can be a solitary way of life. We are the only ones that can produce our work so meeting others is wonderful.

Meet the Maker – Jessica Noble Jeweller/ Silversmith/Tutor

What are you working on at the moment and where do you find ideas for your work?
My new collection is taking my designs in a different direction which focuses on combining jewellery collections with small-ware dresser pieces. Ideas and inspiration are born from my fascination with organic forms and botanical patterns and textures.

What medium do you use in your practice and why?
I craft pieces in silver, gold and precious gemstones and find these materials fascinating to work in as they require such skill and attention to detail, as well as requiring an unusual combination of a delicate yet strong hand.

What motivates you to make work, who do you believe has influenced your career and inspired you to start?
12 years ago I left my corporate job to study for a Jewellery and Silversmithing degree. But it was the initial passion inspired by my tutor at evening classes before that, that led me to where I am today; not only as a designer and maker but as a teacher too as I love to share my skills and passion for jewellery!

What is your favourite piece of work you have created, and why? A piece from my first ever graduate collection; a full, voluminous silver dress necklace with clustered pod shapes, all hand formed and intricately linked, cascading around the neck of the wearer. Far from being a perfect piece, it was probably my most formative piece as a designer and maker.

What is your proudest achievement or award you have received?

When I graduated I was excited to have won multiple awards for my collection (from esteemed organisations including The British Jewellery Association and The Goldsmiths Company). To have this level of positive feedback gave me the confidence to go for it!

What is the most indispensable item or tool in your studio?

I'll have to say the humble piercing saw. With just this I'd still be able to fabricate both simple and intricate pieces.

Where is your favourite place to see art/craft?

The V&A jewellery room has to be my go to place to see awe inspiring art and design. It is utterly stunning. I also enjoy going to independent exhibitions and discovering some really unexpected curations.

Why is Farnham the place to practise your art/craft?

Farnham is such a vibrant and creative place with its unique history and heritage in the crafts. I feel that I have found my creative home and a warm community of like-minded people. I wouldn't want to be anywhere else.

Being part of a community of makers is...

Being amongst friends. We share skills, techniques, tools, materials and advice with a good chat over a cuppa!

Meet the Maker – Julia Quigley Ceramicist

What are you working on at the moment and where do you find ideas for your work?

Currently I'm slicing sheets of previously painted and stencilled soft clay before stretching with a hand or mechanical roller and hand building dishes, jugs and plates. Occasionally decals are applied to the damp surface and rolled into the slips, adding a change of pace and pattern. Ideas pop up at the most unexpected times, the distorted bicycle series was inspired by a road sign designed for motorists to read. The ubiquity of road signs and their stylised design intrigues me.

What medium do you use in your practice and why?

An Earthenware Terra Cotta and stoneware pale clay mixed, I prefer the softer colour. Working in this medium has benefits for the planet, a lower maturing temperature for clay and glaze and the soft sensual qualities of slips, as a covering or as translucent wash on warm coloured clay. When rolled out the slips expand and fade, all coloured slips behave differently, a continual learning curve.

What motivates you to make work, who do you believe has influenced your career and inspired you to start?

I have no idea what inspired the choice of ceramics over other disciplines. As a student I was lucky enough to experience a range of arts and craft related courses, clay must have won out. No one person has been a particular influence, but so many have inspired admiration. It's a kaleidoscope of makers, Richard Slee, Takeshi Yasuda, Geoff Fuller, Sam Hale, Ruth Duckworth, Ewen Henderson, Hallima Cassell, so many others. Most important; the Unknown Craftsman, whose unnamed pots sing out across the centuries.

What is your favourite piece of work you have created, and why? The very next piece I make. I might fail better next time.

What is your proudest achievement or award you have received? Teaching myself to complete funding applications and achieve money that enabled people to access free clay activities at Farnham Pottery. Schools, Young Carers, clay confidence building for University

Students and events for all benefited from Lottery funding.

What is the most indispensable item or tool in your studio?

'Terry's Rustless Curtain Wire' - an expanded length of antique curtain wire cut from a coil. When dragged through clay the spiral pattern creates surface ridges and furrows
Where is your favourite place to see art/craft? The Victoria and Albert Museum

Why is Farnham the place to practise your art/craft?

When being close to other crafts people who can share their concepts and skills, boundaries can be crossed and fresh creative journeys followed.

Being part of a community of makers is... Invigorating, supportive, helpful, both practically and conceptually.
